

A practical guide on how to submit, review, and get your paper published in Public Health Journals

Facilitator	Dr. Ana Oña, PhD University of Lucerne, Swiss Paraplegic Research
Description	Submitting, reviewing, and publishing papers is a key part of research, but it can be frustrating due to its complexity and time demands. This course offers a practical guide on how to navigate these steps effectively. It covers everything from formatting your paper to understanding publication fees and agreements. The goal is to equip you with the skills to format your papers efficiently, making revisions and resubmissions easier, and focused but not unique in Public Health.
Objectives	This course aims to provide students with the necessary skills to format their research papers for publication.  We will cover better practices for dealing with: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- Co-authors collaborations</li><li>- First submission</li><li>- Resubmission</li><li>- Reviewer's answers</li><li>- Final publication checks</li></ul>
Date	4 September 2025
Level	Regardless of the progress of its publications, everyone can benefit from the formats and best practices for submitting, resubmitting papers, and better handling the process.
Eligibility	The course is open to PhD and MD students of the SSPH+ Inter-university Graduate Campus.

Course Structure	The course will be conducted online, which will allow us to reach a broader audience. Each student will develop a customized base template for their research and checking list. The course is designed to be interactive, allowing students to share their strategies and collaborate with peers.
