Description

This 2-day course, comprising Zoom lectures interspersed with in-class and intensive take-home exercises, is designed for students who will need to write scientific papers in English, but who may not yet be ready to produce a specific paper.

The six modules introduce students to all the methods and tools required to write a research paper in English. The course will help students painlessly integrate writing into their scientific processes, so papers are already close to completion by the time the final analysis of data is complete. The only prerequisite is a B2 or higher level of English.

Objectives

Students will learn to:

1. Write while they do their research, to more efficiently produce papers.
2. Use reporting guidelines (qualitative or quantitative) to produce high-quality papers.
3. Outline efficiently in English.
4. Write proper English paragraphs, without wasted effort.
5. Write compelling and well-organized Introductions and Discussions.
6. Create effective figures and tables
7. Manage co-authors to ensure that the collaboration process runs smoothly and on time.

Dates | 18 / 25 August 2023

Eligibility | Open to PhD students of the SSPH+ Inter-university Graduate Campus; other students and external participants are welcome to apply for limited spaces.

Course Structure | 2 full course days of lectures and exercises (7 hours each), and intensive homework exercises.

Assessment | Graded exercises. The instructor will review each exercise and write summaries for the whole group, providing feedback and suggesting resources to address each area of confusion or weakness. Final grades will be available 2 to 3 weeks after the end of the course, to give the instructor time to write individualized assessments.
